United States District Court Northern District of California Attn: Teresa De Martini, Deputy Clerk for Judge Samuel Conti 450 Golden Gate Ave. San Francisco, CA 94102

Amended Case Management Statement

United States of America v. Regal Stone Ltd., et al. USDC Case No. C-07-06045-SC

Per Local Rule 16-10(d), counsel jointly submits this cover letter and the attached February 22, 2008 Case Management Statement for the May 9, 2008 Case Management Conference. Except for a new action against co-Defendant John Cota entitled United States of America v. John Joseph Cota (3:08-cr-00160-SI-1), and the newly related case Continental Insurance Company v. Regal Stone, Ltd. et al. (07-cv-5800) the information provided in the previously filed and attached February 22, 2008 statement submitted continues to be accurate and true.

The parties jointly advise the Court of additional motions filed after the February 22, 2008 Case Management Conference. On March 21, 2008, Defendants Regal Stone, Ltd. and Fleet Management, Ltd. filed a Motion to Dismiss or in the alternative a Motion to Stay. The hearing date was set for April 25, 2008. On March 26, 2008, Plaintiff filed an Amended Complaint. On April 4, 2008, Defendants Regal Stone, Ltd. and Fleet Management, Ltd. filed a revised Motion to Dismiss or in the alternative a Motion to Stay. On April 17, 2008, Defendant John Cota filed a joinder to the foregoing motion, thereby also seeking dismissal as to himself. The Court scheduled a hearing date of May 9, 2008 for the revised Motion to Dismiss.

Defendants advise that because they believe that joinder of the State of California is necessary, they may file a motion for joinder under Fed. Rule Civ. Proc. 19.

With respect to discovery matters, it appears that certain COSCO BUSAN crewmen, all of them non-United States citizens, may be in a position to leave the United States and its jurisdiction as early as late May or June of 2008. The United States intends to take the depositions of those crewmen before they depart the United States' and the Court's jurisdiction in May 1, 2008 Page 2 order to preserve their testimony. In the event that any party or witness declines to so cooperate (and hopefully that will not occur), the United States or other parties shall seek the Court's assistance.

CASE MANAGEMENT PLAN AND PROPOSED ORDER – C07-6045 SC

MEETING 1 2 Pursuant to the Court's Order of December 13, 2007, the following parties and their representatives conferred on January 31, 2007: 3 4 A. Appearing on behalf of Plaintiff United States: 5 R. Michael Underhill, United States Department of Justice, Torts Branch, Civil Division; 6 Bradley R. O'Brien, United States Department of Justice, Environment and 7 Natural Resources Division, Environmental Enforcement Section. 8 9 В. Appearing on behalf of Defendants: M/V COSCO BUSAN ("COSCO 10 BUSAN"); Regal Stone Limited ("Regal Stone"), the latter presently appearing solely pursuant to Supplemental Admiralty Rule E(8) of the Fed.R.Civ.P. as claimant to COSCO 11 12 BUSAN, and Fleet Management Ltd. ("Fleet Management"): John D. Giffin and Nicole Bussi, Keesal Young & Logan. 13 C. Appearing on behalf of Defendant John Cota ("Cota"): 14 15 Walter G. Coppenrath, Jr., Phillip S. Dalton and George M. Jones, Coppenrath & Associates. 16 17 D. Appearing on behalf of Defendant Shipowners' Insurance & Guaranty Company Ltd. ("SIGCO"): 18 19 Richard L. Jarashow and Sidney Kanazawa, McGuire Woods. JURISDICTION AND SERVICE 20 I. Jurisdiction: The United States brought this suit and has alleged jurisdiction pursuant to 21 22 the following statutes: 23 28 U.S.C. § 1345; a. 24 b. The National Marine Sanctuaries Act ("NMSA"), 16 U.S.C. §§ 1431, et 25 seq., including sections 1437 and 1443; The Park System Resource Protection Act ("PSRPA"), 16 U.S.C. § 19jj, et 26 c. 27 28

seq., including section 19jj-2; and

- d. The Oil Pollution Act of 1990 ("OPA"), 33 U.S.C. §§ 2701, et seq., including section 2717.
- e. As set forth below, the United States may amend its complaint to assert a claim for a judicially assessed civil penalty pursuant to the Clean Water Act, 33 U.S.C. § 1321(b)(7), as amended by OPA.

Service: The United States has served all parties other than defendant Regal Stone, which purports to be an entity located in Hong Kong. The United States has attempted to serve Regal Stone under provisions of the Hague Service Convention, but to date no return of the summons and complaint has been received.

Counterclaims:

No counterclaims have been asserted.

Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone and Fleet Management Position: As described more fully below, Defendants contest subject matter jurisdiction and will move to dismiss on that basis.

II. FACTS

The United States' complaint alleges that on November 7, 2007, the COSCO BUSAN allided with the base and/or fendering system of the "Delta Tower," one of the support towers of the western span of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge (the "Incident"). The allision with the Bay Bridge resulted in a rupture of the COSCO BUSAN's fuel tanks, thereby allowing fuel oil to be discharged into navigable waters of the United States. The United States contends that the discharge impacted adjoining shorelines of San Francisco Bay, the Pacific Ocean, the Gulf of the Farallones National Marine Sanctuary and the Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary, and units of the National Park System, including, but not limited to, the Golden Gate National Recreation Area, Point Reyes National Seashore, San Francisco Maritime National Historic Park, and Rosie the Riveter/World War II Home Front National Historic Park.

The United States' complaint alleges that at the time of the Incident Regal Stone was the owner of the COSCO BUSAN; that Fleet Management was the operator of the vessel; that Cota was the pilot of COSCO BUSAN. The United States' complaint further has alleged that defendant SIGCO provided evidence of financial responsibility and certain guarantees pertaining to the Vessel, said financial guarantees made pursuant to OPA, 33 U.S.C. § 2716, and regulations promulgated pursuant to OPA.

In signing this Case Management Plan, none of the defendants herein admit, nor shall they be deemed to have admitted, any allegation of the United States' complaint and, conversely, the defendants each reserve any and all claims, rights, denials, and defenses as may be set out by way or answer, responsive pleading, and/or motion.

III. LEGAL ISSUES

United States' Position: The defendants' liability, without limitation, declaratory relief, potential forfeiture, interest, and disbursements sustained by the United States under the various statutes and causes of action pled in the United States's complaint, as well as pursuant to any amended complaint asserting civil penalties, including judicially assessed civil penalties under the Clean Water Act, 33 U.S.C. § 1321(b)(7).

The United States is submitting this proposed Case Management Order solely as it relates to the instant civil judicial action and solely as a result of the Court's Orders concerning the Case Management Plan and Case Management Conference. The United States' undersigned attorneys in this civil action are not aware of any indictment or criminal case that has been filed against any of the defendants herein. The United States therefore takes no position at this time, and has no comment upon, allegations or statements made by certain defendants in this proposed Case Management Order relating to criminal proceedings.

Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone and Fleet Management Position: This action fails to present a justiciable case in controversy. The position of the Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone Ltd. and Fleet Management Ltd. is that the United States' claims are not ripe, that this Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over the claims asserted by the United States and that the United States is required by applicable law to submit its claims for removal costs and damages first to the designated Responsible Party (Regal Stone Ltd.) before it may initiate a lawsuit.

Defendant John Cota's Position: Cota will join in Co-Defendants' Motion to Dismiss or Stay on the grounds that the United States' claim is not ripe and of a lack of jurisdiction and failure of the United States to comply with applicable administrative procedures. Cota will further move to the dismiss or stay this action in that the United States Department of Justice contemplates a criminal proceeding against him and requiring civil discovery of Captain Cota would violate his Fifth Amendment rights; additionally, the United States has not exhausted its administrative remedies.

IV. MOTIONS

No motions have been filed.

Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone and Fleet Management Position: A Motion to Dismiss the United States' Complaint will be filed by Defendants M/V COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone Ltd. and Fleet Management Ltd. The basis of the Motion will be, as stated above, i.e., the United States' claim is not ripe, lack of subject matter jurisdiction and failure of the United States to comply with applicable administrative procedures. In the alternative, and for the same reasons above along with the fact that the United Stated is already pursing a contemporaneous criminal proceeding, the Defendants will ask the Court to stay the suit.

Defendant John Cota's Position: Cota will join in Co-Defendants' Motion to Dismiss or Stay on the grounds that the United States' claim is not ripe and of a lack of jurisdiction and failure of the United States to comply with applicable administrative procedures. Cota will further move to the dismiss or stay this action in that the United States Department of Justice contemplates a criminal proceeding against him and requiring civil discovery of Captain Cota would violate his Fifth Amendment rights and the United States has not exhausted its administrative remedies.

Defendant SIGCO's Position:

Unless agreement can be reached with the United States pursuant to pending discussions regarding voluntary dismissal of SIGCO, following discovery or an admission by the United States confirming that the OPA limits applicable to SIGCO's Guaranty at the time of the incident have been expended for OPA removal costs and damages, SIGCO intends to move by way of summary judgment for dismissal of the case as to SIGCO.

V. AMENDMENT OF PLEADINGS

United States' Position:

The United States asserts that it may amend its complaint. If filed, the amended complaint could include:

- a. A claim for a judicially assessed civil penalty pursuant to the Clean Water Act, 33 U.S.C. § 1321(b)(7), as amended by OPA;
- b. Removal of SIGCO as a defendant. The United States and SIGCO are discussing the possibility of dismissing said defendant without prejudice.

Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone and Fleet Management Position:

Defendants M/V COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone Ltd. and Fleet Management Ltd. have no present intention to amend their pleadings. Defendants will contest the assertion by the Government in paragraph c. above, on the basis that it is a pretext for the United States to conduct early discovery on strict liability issues to gain an unfair advantage in its pending criminal investigation and or other proceedings.

VI. EVIDENCE PRESERVATION

United States' Position: The obligation to preserve evidence relevant to the issues reasonably relevant in this action shall be as set forth in the United States' proposed Case Management Plan.

 Phase I:

Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone and Fleet Management Position:

Defendants Regal Stone Ltd. and Fleet Management Ltd., and their counsel, are taking appropriate steps to preserve relevant evidence, and assert that the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, specifically 26(f) and this District Court's Standing Order effective since March 1, 2007 are sufficiently adequate and should be followed over the modified approach suggested by the Government.

Defendant John Cota's Position: Defendant Cota has taken and will continue to take appropriate steps to preserve relevant evidence.

VII. LITIGATION AND INITIAL DISCLOSURES

United States' Position: The United States believes this is a complex case, but does not believe that the procedures of the Manual for Complex Litigation should be utilized. The United States believes that, in the interest of efficiency and judicial economy, that litigation should be phased as follows:

- Liability, damages (other than natural resource damages reserved for Phase III), declaratory relief (Fourth Cause of Action, 33 U.S.C. § 2717(f)(2)), and civil penalty issues. Phase I will extend for a period not to exceed 15 months
- Phase II: Mediation relating to the natural resource damage assessment, natural resource injuries, and natural resource damages; and other unresolved Phase I issues. Phase II will extend for a period not to exceed three months.
- Phase III: If Phase II does not lead to settlement, issues relating to the natural resource damage assessment, natural resource injuries, and natural resource damages. Phase III will extend for a period not to exceed 15 months.

All fact and expert discovery, dispositive motions, and trials shall be conducted during the appropriate phase. No schedule or discovery limits shall be entered at this time with respect to Phase III; these requirements shall be determined in a case management order to be entered upon commencement of Phase III.

Consistent with the this phased approach, and pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(1), the parties will exchange initial Phase I disclosures (including Rule 26 requirements) on or before May 1, 2008, and will exchange initial Phase III disclosures (including Rule 26 requirements) within 30 days of the initiation of Phase III. The parties will reach agreement on the selection of the mediator for Phase II and are expected to complete the mediation process within the specified three month period without the aide of the Court.

To the extent it is otherwise consistent with this Case Management Plan, the parties will attempt to coordinate discovery with the related cases described in Section X of this Case Management Plan, and litigation that is initiated in other jurisdictions.

Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone and Fleet Management Position:

Defendants M/V COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone Ltd. and Fleet Management Ltd. believe that the United States' lawsuit should be dismissed in its entirety, or in the alternative, stayed pending the United States' proper submission of its claims in accordance with applicable law and its own established administrative procedures.

Defendants M/V COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone Ltd. and Fleet Management Ltd. further assert that the United States' suggested approach of phased litigation is unwarranted, unnecessarily complex and actually illustrates the fact that there is no case in controversy because its case is not ripe and that the United States is simply seeking to conduct discovery to gain an unfair advantage on issues currently being investigated by United States in its criminal investigation.

Defendant John Cota's Position: Defendant Cota believes that the United States' lawsuit should be dismissed in its entirety or, in the alternative, stayed pending the United States' proper submission of claims in accordance with applicable law. Cota further contends that the United States' lawsuit must be dismissed or stayed pending the resolution of a parallel criminal proceeding contemplated by the United States against defendant Cota.

VIII. DISCOVERY AND FACTS

United States' Position:

No discovery has been taken to date. Certain crew of the COSCO BUSAN (i.e., crewmembers aboard the vessel on the date of the bridge allision) are believed by the undersigned Government counsel still to be in the United States. These percipient witnesses/crew are not United States citizens or resident aliens. Thus, to the extent they already are or later may be outside the jurisdiction of the United States and the Court, they will be beyond the subpoena power of United States courts, state courts, and federal or state administrative agencies. The United States has served notices of depositions de bene esse of the said crewmembers in order to preserve their testimony for trial and/or motion practice. The notices did not include specific dates and it is the intention of the Government to work with all counsel to seek mutually convenient times and dates, but, in any event, to conduct the depositions before the crew leave the United States and the Court's jurisdiction and subpoena power. Should one or more defendants move for a stay of this action, and should such a motion be granted, the United States will seeks the Court's permission and assistance in securing the said depositions as an exception to the stay.

Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone and Fleet Management Position: M/V COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone Ltd. and Fleet Management Ltd. believe that no discovery should be taken, as the United States' claim is premature and further on the grounds that applicable law makes the Defendant Regal Stone strictly liable for the very damages arising from the oil spill alleged in the United States' Complaint. There is no case in controversy, and again the United States' attempt to engage in discovery on an issue where Defendant Regal Stone is strictly liable is simply unwarranted, a waste of judicial resources and a pretext to gain an unfair advantage in other proceedings being pursued by the United States.

The United States is well aware that six crew members from COSCO BUSAN are in the United States; in fact, it issued and served material witnesses warrants on each of these crew members and they are currently being held in the United States pursuant to those warrants. The United States knows that each of those crew members are individually represented by separate counsel.

Defendant John Cota's Position:

Defendant Cota contends that, as currently alleged, all causes of action provide for strict liability. Vessel Interests are currently funding all approved claims, response costs and natural resource damages as they are determined pursuant to applicable statutes and regulations. There is consequently no need for discovery or a trial at this time and this case should be stayed or dismissed pending the ultimate outcome of all administrative processes related to damages and payments therefore. Furthermore, in light criminal proceedings contemplated by the Department of Justice against Captain Cota, it would be unfair and prejudicial to require him to participate in civil discovery in light of his Fifth Amendment rights.

Accordingly, Cota contends there is presently no need for a Discovery Schedule or agreement as to discovery procedures unless and until the Court rules on the upcoming motions to dismiss or stay this action.

Furthermore, Defendant Cota strenuously disagrees with and objects to the United States' position that it has no obligation to preserve or produce documentary evidence, as articulated in Section VIII.B.a. Such a position is, at the very least, violative of due process and fundamental fairness.

with all pretrial dates to be set by the Court in accordance with the trial date ordered by the Court.

Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone and Fleet Management Position:

Defendants object to a discovery plan proposed by the government based on a phased litigation. As stated above, such an approach is unwarranted and designed simply to give the United States an unfair advantage.

B. General Matters:

United States' Position:

- a. Documents: The United States shall have no obligation to preserve, search for or produce, or otherwise identify as privileged, documents in the files of the United States Department of Justice or within the files of legal counsel for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the Department of the Interior, the United States Coast Guard, or any other federal agency that brings a claim in this action. Defendants shall have no obligation to preserve, produce or otherwise identify as privileged, documents in the files of its outside litigation counsel in this case or within the files of in-house legal counsel. This limitation has no effect on the parties' obligations to search for, produce or otherwise identify as privileged, copies of all documents that are otherwise in a party's possession.
- b. Non-waiver: By exchanging documents and communications with each other, the parties do not waive any privilege, immunity, or other basis for confidentiality that otherwise applies to these documents and communications.
- c. Unnecessary Assertions of Privilege: It is unnecessary to identify any documents prepared by or at the direction of counsel after November 7, 2007, or assert any privilege over such documents. It is unnecessary to identify any electronic mail sent among the attorneys jointly representing a client in the matter at issue, or between an attorney and his or her client in the matter at issue, without regard to the date on which such electronic communication was sent. This provision shall also apply to electronic

- e. Sequential Numbering: For purposes of clarity and efficiency, to the extent possible, deposition exhibits (including fact and expert deposition exhibits) will be sequentially numbered during each deposition and throughout the course of depositions. For example, the first exhibit of the first deposition will be numbered one, the second exhibit will be numbered two and so forth. If the first deposition ends with exhibit five, then the second deposition will begin with exhibit six. If a previously numbered exhibit is used in a subsequent deposition, the parties will use the number initially assigned to it.
- f. Interrogatories: Each party is limited to 20 interrogatories for Phase I, including, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 33(a), all discrete subparts.
- g. Requests for Admission: The parties anticipate serving requests for admissions, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P.36.
- h. Requests for Productions: The parties anticipate serving requests for production, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 34.
- i. Fact Depositions: There will be a maximum of 20 fact depositions taken by each party for Phase I without leave of court. The parties will make good faith efforts to confer prior to scheduling depositions and to adhere to any schedules agreed upon by counsel. The parties will adhere to the following procedures.
 - 1. Notices of depositions may be served on officers and employees of the parties, without resort to subpoenas or further process;

- 2. The time between service of deposition notice and the date set for the deposition by that notice shall be no less than 20 business days unless shortened by agreement of the parties or order of the Court;
- 3. Each deposition of a fact witness, not including 30(b)(6) deponents, shall be limited to one day of 7 hours, excluding breaks, unless extended by agreement of the parties or order of the Court. Each deposition taken pursuant to 30(b)(6) shall be limited to two days of 7 hours each, excluding breaks, unless extended by agreement of the parties or order of the Court.
- j. Expert Discovery: Notwithstanding any provision in the Fed. R. Civ. P. to the contrary, the following terms apply to both the productions of documents under Rul 26(a)(2)(B), Rule 34, and Rule 45, and to the timing and scope of expert deposition testimony.
 - 1. At the time of submission of expert reports, the parties will identify "the data or other information considered by the witness in forming [his or her] opinions," in accordance with Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(2). For the purpose of this Case Management Plan, except as noted below, "considered documents" shall be those documents (other than those determined not to be relevant after cursory review) that have been furnished to the expert to be used in forming opinions, have ben received and read or reviewed, or taken into account by the expert, regardless of whether the expert actually relies upon the document, in forming his or her opinion. Such "data or other information" may be subject to questioning during expert depositions. The party submitting expert reports will provide all copies of all "considered" documents to the other party within 7 days of submitting the corresponding expert report(s). Where such "data or other information" was produced by either party in this litigation, identification by Bates number will be sufficient. The party submitting expert reports shall identify information that is publicly available, but is required to produce such documents only if it is more burdensome for the party receiving the report to obtain them than it would be for the party producing the report, and upon specific request.

- 2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, all drafts and pre-final versions of the expert's report shall be outside the scope of expert discovery. "Drafts and pre-final versions" shall be interpreted to encompass only the following:
 - a. Draft or preliminary spreadsheets, tables, or other quantitative analyses, outlines, notes, or other work papers or preliminary drafts of the expert's report that were created by the expert (or persons employed by or otherwise working for the expert) as part of preparing his/her report. However, if the testifying expert relies upon spreadsheets, tables, or other quantitative analysis created in preparation of his/her report, the final iteration of the document relied upon is subject to discovery, unless all information relied upon is contained in the expert's final report;
 - b. Drafts and pre-final versions exchanged between the expert (or persons employed by or otherwise working for the expert) and another testifying expert. However, if one testifying expert ("Expert A") relies on a document authored by another testifying expert ("Expert B"), the version of the document relied on is subject to discovery from Expert A, notwithstanding its status as a "draft" to the authoring expert, Expert B, unless all information considered by Expert A is contained in Expert B's final report; and

- c. Non-substantive communications (including electronic mail) between the expert (or persons employed by or otherwise working for the expert) and the party or any representative thereof (including counsel);
- 3. Additionally, the following two categories of communication are not discoverable:
 - a. The substance of comments (both written and verbal) about drafts and pre-final versions of expert reports by an attorney or other representative of a party are not discoverable;
 - b. Except for the expert's hourly rate and estimates of the total time spent preparing the expert report, all documents or other information relating to the expert's contractual arrangement with the party (or any representative thereof) for purposes of preparing the expert report (e.g., billing statement, statements of work, etc.) shall not be discoverable, unless such documents fall into the category described in VI(F)(1) above.
- 4. With regard to the expert depositions:
 - a. There will be no formal numeric limitation on the number of expert depositions;
 - b. Each party will pay for the time that the party's own expert spends in deposition; and
 - c. The 7 hour, one-day limit imposed by Rule 30(d)(2) shall not apply to expert depositions. Except as otherwise set forth in this subparagraph, the deposition of an expert shall be limited to 14 hours. Without agreement of counsel, no deposition of an expert shall last more than 7 hours in any calendar day excluding breaks. If a party anticipates either before or during a deposition of an expert that an expert's deposition will take longer than 14 hours, the parties shall discuss the need for an extension. If the parties in this case cannot reach an agreement regarding an extension, the party taking the deposition may seek relief from the Court and bears the burden of demonstrating that 14 hours are inadequate.

k. Effect of Inadvertent Production of Documents: The parties agree that the inadvertent production of documents or metadata shall not, in and of itself, waive any privilege that would otherwise attach to the documents produced. The following procedures shall apply to any such claim of inadvertent production.

Promptly from the time the party actually learns of the inadvertent production, the producing party shall give all counsel of record notice of the claimed inadvertent production. The notice shall identify the document, the portions of the document that were inadvertently produced, and the first date the document was produced. If the party that produced a document claims that only a portion of the document was inadvertently produced, the party shall provide the notice of inadvertent production, a new copy of the document with the allegedly privileged portions redacted.

A party receiving documents is under a good-faith obligation to promptly alert the producing party if a document appears on its face or in light of facts known to the receiving party to be privileged.

Once an inadvertently produced document has been identified, the receiving party must promptly return, sequester, or destroy the specified information and may not use or disclose the information until the claim is resolved. Upon resolution of an inadvertent production claim in favor of the producing party, the originally produced non-redacted documents and all copies will be returned to the producing party.

l. Joinder of Additional Parties: The United States is not aware that additional parties or related parties will be joined.

m. Electronic Disclosures:

- 1. Criteria for the Production of Electronic Documents. All documents or information provided by electronic means shall be provided in a reasonably usable form. Specifically, all documents or information shall:
 - a. be provided on a CD-ROM or on an external hard drive,USB 2.0, for Windows compatible personal computers;
 - b. be provided as 300 dpi single-page TIFF files;
 - c. minimally contain a start and end Bates number for each document and its extracted or OCR-processed text;
 - d. be uniquely Bates numbered (as part of the actual image file not as an overlay);
 - e. be accompanied by a "cross reference file" which associates each Bates number with its corresponding single-page Tiff image file. The cross reference should also contain the image file path for each Bates numbered page. Cross reference files shall be formatted for Option or IPRO software; and
 - f. not contain passwords protecting files or media, or if passwords are contained, the passwords shall be provided.
 - 2. Preservation and Production of Electronically Stored Information.

 The parties need not preserve the following categories of electronic information for this litigation:
 - a. data duplicated in any electronic back-up system for the 18

24

purpose of system recovery or information restoration, including but not limited to, system recovery back-up tapes, continuity of operations systems, and data or system mirrors or shadows, if such data are routinely purged, overwritten or otherwise made not reasonably accessible in accordance with an established routine system maintenance policy;

- b. voicemail messages;

Defendants COSCO BUSAN, Regal Stone and Fleet Management Position:

Defendants believe that the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, including specifically 26 (a)(2), 26 (f) and this District Court's Standing Order effective since March 1, 2007 are sufficiently adequate and should be followed over the modified discovery approach suggested by the Government.

Defendants alert the Court to the fact that many of the federal agencies which make up the United States have separate counsel that are acting in capacities other than as litigation counsel. Moreover, to the extent that United States has initiated this civil action at this time (which the defendants assert is premature), and at the same time now seeks to carve out its compulsory claim for Natural Resource Damages, the Court should be advised that the State of California is also involved which presents significant Eleventh Amendment issues, particularly for the Defendants. That is, expert analysis and communications could be conducted by the State and then withheld from discovery in this action. In addition the parties, including the United States and the State of California are already actively engaged in an ongoing cooperative assessment process being funded entirely by Regal Stone for determining damage/injury and restoration. The governments' proposal for exempting out its obligations to identify and preserve privileged communications, and documents as otherwise required under FRCP 26 is inconsistent with its efforts in the cooperative process. In addition, the Defendants believe that as a matter of complete fairness, if discovery is conducted that it should simply be conducted in accordance with Rule 26. This approach would also apply to draft and pre-final versions of expert reports FRCP 26 (4) and (5).

Chelsea, LLC et al v. Regal Stone, Ltd. et al., Civil Action No. 07-5800; and Shogren Living Trust, et al v. Regal Stone, Ltd. et al. Civil Action No. 3:07-5926.

XI. RELIEF

United States' Position:

The United States seeks response costs and damages, without limitations, declaratory relief, potential forfeiture, interest, disbursements sustained by the United States, and reserves the right to assert claims for penalties, as aforesaid.

Natural resource damages will be determined through a natural resource damages assessment (NRDA), which is currently being conducted pursuant to procedures contained in 15 CFR, Part 990. Pursuant to this process, data is being collected and studies undertaken to determine the extent of injuries to natural resources and will be used to select and "scale" restoration projects that will compensate the public for injuries to resources and their losses or services they provide. The cost of these restoration projects will determine the amount of damages.

The NRDA process has to date identified nine categories of injured resources: birds, mammals, fish, human uses, cultural resources, and rocky intertidal, sandy beach, saltmarsh, and eelgrass habitats. Currently identified injuries include thousands of oiled birds, nearly 100 miles of oiled shoreline and habitat, and substantial lost human use days at beaches, parks, and other recreation areas in the vicinity of the spill. Data collection, however, is still ongoing and the scope and extent of the injuries may increase. The United States intends that the ongoing NRDA process be sufficiently complete to allow the phased approach to litigation to result in efficient litigation and preserve the court's and the parties' resources.
